Visit a stunning Site of Special Scientific Interest (SSSI) nestled on the edge of Tiverton. Tidcombe Fen was designated as an SSSI in 1988 as a good example of a type of wetland fen habitat that is now nationally scarce and rare in Devon. The 10.7 hectare site occupies the shallow valley of the Ailsa Brook, a tributary of the River Lowman. The soils are waterlogged throughout the site, supporting fen meadow vegetation.

Scan the QR code to visit our website.

When visiting the site, please wear appropriate clothing, sturdy footwear and waterproof clothing when necessary. Given the wet and uneven ground and long damp vegetation, walking boots/welly boots are strongly advised throughout the year. We will provide a health and safety briefing and bring a first aid kit.

Parking

Parking is limited. For those travelling by car, we suggest parking on Glebelands Road. The meeting point is next to the mini roundabout at the junction of Tidcombe Walk and Tidcombe Lane, about 100m the Blundell's School side of the old railway line. We meet at the gates with the cattle crush in.
